

Diversity of wood degrading gribbles (Isopoda)

Monika Bright and Renate Degen

Department of Functional and Evolutionary Ecology, Marine Benthic Ecology Lab

- We study wood degradation in the sea with artificially deployed wood blocks from shallow waters of the Adriatic Sea.
- Gribbles feed exclusively on sunken wood they inhabit. Several species are known from the Mediterranean Sea but which species specifically inhabit wood located in subtidal mudflats, sediments and estuarines is unknown.

